

Agreement to amend the qualification (agreement to transition)

This form is used where an employer and their apprentice or trainee wish to apply to the Department of Education and Training (DET) to change the qualification in which the apprentice or trainee is being trained. Agreement to transition applies where:

- the level of qualification remains unaltered, and
- the new qualification and related apprenticeship and traineeship calling are aligned to the previous qualification and calling. The new qualification must be at the same Australian Qualifications Framework level, or be aligned to the apprentice's or trainee's original calling.

The date of effect for transition is the agreed date nominated on the form.

The employer, the apprentice or trainee, and the training organisation must all agree to this change and must all sign this form. If this form is not used the advice must include all the information and signatures contained in the following DET form.

Overview of the Australian Qualifications Framework

The Australian Qualifications Framework (commonly known as the AQF) is a comprehensive nationally consistent framework incorporating all qualifications recognised in schools, vocational education and training (TAFEs and private providers) and the higher education sector (mainly universities) throughout Australia. The framework identifies six levels in the vocational education and training sector:

- Certificate I
- Certificate II
- Certificate III
- Certificate IV
- Diploma
- Advanced Diploma.
